Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Relate information about health and healthy habits in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- What are you going to do tomorrow?
- What are you going to do next week?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about my plans and intentions.
- I can talk about my activities in the past.
- I can talk about what people do and what people are doing.
- I can describe health problems.

Let's Explore!

John and Vanessa videochat. What are they doing these days?

* "These days" means at the present time.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Hi, John! How's life on the cruise ship?
John: Hey, Vanessa. I'm having a great time. What's new with you?
Vanessa: I'm starting school soon!
John: What are you going to study?
Vanessa: I'm going to learn how to make Italian food.
John: Yum! I can't wait to try some!
Vanessa: What are you up to?
John: I was sick last week - a stomach ache and a headache. Costa Rica is beautiful - I visited the open-air markets and went hiking near an active volcano. I'm going to go windsurfing tomorrow.
Vanessa: Cool!
John: What are Peter and Sally doing these days?
Vanessa: Sally is traveling in Europe and Peter is going to look for a job.
John: Say hi to them for me. Talk to you later!
Vanessa: Later!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Review of the Present Continuous and Be Going To

You use the Present Continuous and be going to to talk about future actions and events.

You use the Present Continuous to talk about arrangements and plans. Be going to puts an emphasis on the idea of intention (decide to do something).

You can use intend to in place of be going to.

Examples:

- I'm starting school soon. vs. I'm going to start school next Monday.
I intend to start school next week.
